A. INTRODUCTION

PURPOSE

It is the purpose of this Employee Handbook to provide a guideline for our employees and outline of Security Eye Patrol, Inc. policies, rules and regulations. This handbook explains the obligations of employment with Security Eye Patrol, Inc. and its subsidiaries. It has deliberately been set forth in broad terms to allow for management flexibility, since it is impossible to foresee every situation which could arise. Each employee's needs and problems are unique and require managerial judgment. This handbook does not attempt to anticipate every situation or circumstance which may arise and treatment or action in particular cases may vary from these general guidelines. This Employee Handbook describes the policies, rules, procedures and benefits guiding the actions of Security Eye Patrol, Inc. with regard to personnel matters.

The contents of this handbook are general statements of the company's policies, rules, procedures and benefits. However, this handbook is not intended to be exhaustive and is subject to change. Security Eye Patrol, Inc. reserves the right to make these changes, to update, and delete, or to add to these policies, rules, procedures and benefits at any time. All such changes can only be made by the President of the Company and those changes will only be considered binding on either or both parties if made in writing and signed by the President. Each job site has additional policies, rules, regulations, and procedures, that are specific to the client and the job site or duty station. Client job site duties are listed and included in the Standard Operations Procedure at each job site. This handbook supersedes all previous handbooks and training guides.

This handbook is being provided to all employees of Security Eye Patrol, Inc. as a reference and procedural guide. All employees are expected to read and adhere to the information provided. In addition to this manual, employees must read any current and future training capsules, SB 198 Health and Safety handbooks, training guides, memos, directives, and Standard Operations procedures of Security Eye Patrol, and our clients. If you have any questions or need clarification on anything printed in this handbook please ask the Office Manager or any company supervisor or management representative. Always remember: When in doubt, immediately contact a supervisor or representative of management.

HISTORY:

Security Eye Patrol, Inc. is a California Corporation based in Livermore and was established in 1970 by David A. Rezendes, Gerald R. Bell and Warren R. Bell. In 1998 Mr. David Rezendes purchased both Gerald and Warren Bell's interest in Security Eye. The year 2011 will mark the 41st anniversary of the Corporation.

We have had many retired police officers as part of our staff over the years. We are very grateful for the consultation and guidance which former Livermore Police Chief of 42 years, Chief John R. Michelis gave to our firm. He served as Chief of Security after his retirement from the City of Livermore.

Security Eye began as only a patrol service and quickly expanded to include professional on-site security guard service. Our firm now provides services for: Gated communities, Hospitals, Fair Associations, Office Buildings, Industrial Plant Security, Commercial Security, Distribution Centers, Factories, Government Agencies, Country Clubs, Facilities Management Groups, Schools, Colleges, Office Reception Areas, TV. Monitoring, Warehouses, Merchant Buyer’s Service, Plain Clothed Reporting and Observance, Alarm Response, Courier Service, Special Events and much more. Geographically, we provide services in Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin and the rural areas surrounding the Tri-Valley area.

JOB OPPORTUNITIES:

Our history has created a strong foundation for the company. We invite you to tell your family and friends about possible job opportunities within Security Eye Patrol Inc. There are flexible schedules and part-time or full-time positions available year-round. Security Eye Patrol Inc. has the following divisions:

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYMENT:

It is important to remember that in the fulfillment of your duties the crucial function is observing and reporting. You are expected to challenge persons in a professional manner to enforce access to restricted areas. You are never to put yourself in danger while enforcing rules and policies. We do not possess any police powers and/or authority. In addition, it is illegal to impersonate a police officer or other law enforcement. Security Officers are not allowed to carry a badge in their wallet (State of California, Bureau of Security and Investigative Service). If you have a question regarding your authority in a situation, contact a supervisor immediately.

California State Law states that security officers are not allowed to carry a weapon (firearm) without the proper State of California, Bureau of Security and Investigative Service authorized permit. This law includes the carrying of nightsticks also called “Batons”. All other types of weapons such as brass knuckles, laser pens, mace, sticks, poles, knives, anything resembling a weapon, and anything deemed or classified or utilized, as a weapon is not authorized. Employees cannot carry a weapon on themselves or in their vehicle unless authorized by Security Eye Patrol management. Possessing a State of California license to carry a weapon does not give you the authority to carry a weapon while employed at Security Eye Patrol, Inc.

K. INSURANCE, LEAVE, TIME OFF, AND HOLIDAYS

WORKERS COMPENSATION INSURANCE

If you become injured while working on the job, and in your job classification, you are covered by State Compensation Insurance Fund. You must notify the Security Eye Office Manager and the Scheduling Security Eye Supervisor immediately of any work related injury or illness. You will be required to submit a full and complete report. FALSE reporting of an injury on the job that took place outside the work place is against the law. Fraud will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

WORKERS COMPENSATION LEAVE

Workers Compensation Leave is leave the employee takes when he/she has an industrial injury. Workers compensation is covered by an Insurance Policy the employer provides for employees as a benefit. The first three days of workers compensation leave are not reimbursable to the employee by the Insurance Company, but if the employee qualifies may be taken as sick leave, which the employer may or may not pay for. After the three day elimination period the Insurance Company will compensate the employee according to a compensation schedule. Excluded from coverage are self-employed persons and those persons who volunteer their time to religious, charitable or non-profit organizations, county or municipal entities unless the organization or agency elects to provide coverage.

Employers are expressly prohibited from discharging, threatening or discriminating in any way against an employee because he/she has received an award from, has filed or even intends to file an appeal with Workers Compensation Board.

DISABILITY INSURANCE

State disability insurance partially compensates loss of earnings due to sickness and injury not covered by workers' compensation. However, persons receiving workers' compensation can qualify for some disability insurance payments if workers' compensation payments fall below the payments they could receive from the state disability insurance. Such persons can receive the difference between workers' compensation payments and disability insurance payments from the disability program.

Job Benefits and Protection:

1. For the duration of the FMLA leave, most employers must maintain the employee's health coverage under the group plan. This does not apply to our company because we do not have health coverage for employees at this time.
2. Upon return from FMLA leave, most employees must be restored to their original or equivalent position with equivalent compensation, benefits and other employment terms.

FMLA does not affect any Federal or State law prohibiting discrimination, or supersede any State or Local law or collective bargaining agreement which provides greater family or medical leave rights.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE:

A leave of absence from work usually occurs for reasons of health, pregnancy, discipline or a sabbatical offered by the employer. Leave of absence can be offered with full pay, partial pay or no pay. Leave should have either a termination date or be tied to a predictable event. The only leaves that are mandatory: Pregnancy, family leave in certain circumstances, military leave and jury duty.

With the exception of mandated leaves stated above, leaves of absence are determined by the employer. The employer is not required to pay the employee's salary or benefits under either mandated or not-mandated leaves but generally is required to retain the employee's job in mandated leave so long as certain conditions are met. Employers may, however, offer employees leaves of absence with full or partial pay.

BEREAVEMENT LEAVE:

There is no state or federal law requiring employers to provide employees with bereavement, funeral or similar leave. The existence of such leave is entirely a matter of the company policy. Many employers will allow employees to take this leave as sick leave subject to company imposed restrictions, or take as unpaid leave. At management discretion an employee may utilize vacation as a source for such leave.

JURY DUTY LEAVE:

The employer is required to grant an employee leave to serve on a jury. The employer does not have to pay a nonexempt employee called for jury duty. Most employers limit such benefits to a fixed number of working days. This company pays one day for jury duty if employee is a full time (40 hour a week) employee.

An employer cannot discharge an employee for taking time off to serve on a jury. The employer must be given reasonable notice that an employee is required to serve.

TIME OFF FOR VOTING:

Employer must grant employee time off for voting in a statewide election, if employee does not have sufficient time outside of work, without loss of pay. Time off is limited to two hours and shall be at either the beginning or end of the normal working shift. Employees must notify employer at least two working days in advance of voting. In addition, employees may serve as election officials on election day without being disciplined, but the employer is not required to pay them for such absences.

SCHOOL VISITS REQUIRED OF EMPLOYEES:

An employer having 25 or more employees must give employee who is a parent or guardian time off from work to visit his/her child in Kindergarten through grade 12.

The leave is subject to the following:

1. Employee must give reasonable notice for time off.
2. Employee must provide, if requested, proof he/she visited the school.
3. Employee may take up to four hours in each school year, per child, especially if the school requests the attendance of the parent.

An employer cannot discharge or discipline the employee (parent) who takes time off to visit his/her child's school.

EMERGENCY DUTY AS A VOLUNTEER FIREFIGHTER:

Employers must provide leave of absence for employees required to perform emergency duty as a volunteer firefighter, but is not required to compensate the employee during the time off to perform such duties. (It is clearly understood that security officers are not to leave their posts without proper relief.)

MILITARY LEAVE & QUALIFICATIONS FOR RE-EMPLOYMENT:

Under the Veterans' Re-employment Rights law, an employee who leaves a civilian job to enter active duty in the U.S. armed forces, voluntarily or involuntarily, is entitled to return to his/her civilian job after discharge or release from active duty if the five basic eligibility criteria are satisfied:

1. The civilian job must be other than temporary.
2. Must have left civilian job for the purpose of going on active duty.
3. Must be on active duty no longer than four years unless the period beyond four years (up to one additional year) is at the request of the Federal Government, or if the veteran has been hospitalized.
4. Discharge or release must be honorable.
5. Must apply for re-employment with the pre-service employer within 90 days after separation from active duty.

Returning veterans have an absolute right to their former job with seniority and all benefits, (fringe benefits also) based on seniority. Wages must reflect what the person would have received if employment had been continuous. The veteran's re-employment status must reflect the position, the hours of work and other conditions he/she would have experienced had he/she not taken a military leave. This includes eligibility for promotions.

If a veteran eligible for job reinstatement has become disabled or hospitalized as a result of active duty he/she has 90 day to apply for re-employment after discharge.

If a veteran becomes disabled as a result of his/her military duty the employer must re-employ the person if qualified to perform the duties of the position left behind. If veteran is not physically qualified, the employer must make a reasonable effort to re-employ in another position for which he/she is qualified that provides the same seniority, status and pay or the closest substitute consistent with the veteran's circumstances.

If the company had a layoff that would effect the employee on military leave had he/she been working, there is no legal requirement to take the employee back. A re-employed veteran cannot be discharged without cause for one year after re-employment. However, a veteran may be subject to a reduction in work force. If an employer does not provide full health insurance for employees on military leave and their families, the military leave is a qualifying event making the employee eligible for COBRA.

Military reservists serving 90 days or less also are entitled to re-employment under the Veterans' Re-employment Rights laws.

FAMILY LEAVE:

Both the Federal Family Care and Medical Leave Act, effective August 5, 1993 and the revised California Family and Medical Leave act, effective October 4, 1993, require employers with 50 or more employees to grant request by any employee with at least one year of continuous service to take up to 12 weeks in a 12 month period for family care responsibilities and for the employee's own serious medical condition, This is addressed in the Security Eye Patrol, Inc. FMLA Policy.

PREGNANT LEAVE:

California employers of five or more employees are required to provide pregnant employees with up to four months of disability leave upon a doctor's certification of the pregnant employee's inability to continue working. This period need not be continuous and may include periods both before and after delivery of the child. If employees have been allowed longer disability leaves in the past that benefit must also be applied to employees on pregnancy disability. Employees returning from disability leave resulting from pregnancy are entitled to their former job position, without loss of wage rate or benefits, so long as the return occurs within the time limits described above.
